The purpose of the discussion would be to take stock of the strength and weaknesses of the current economic governance framework and to assess measures that would still be needed in order to provide input to this work from a parliamentary perspective. The Commission launched on 8 March 2016 a consultation with the aim:

- To make an assessment of the present EU social "acquis": Which existing rights are practiced and remain relevant for today's and tomorrow's challenges? Should we consider new ways to deliver on these rights?
- To reflect on new trends in work patterns and societies: What has been the impact of new technologies, demographic trends and other factors on our working life and social conditions? Which best practices and lessons from social innovation should be actively encouraged?
- To gather views and get feedback on the outline of the European Pillar of Social Rights itself and help Member States outside the euro area to determine whether to opt in: What will be the role, scope and content of the Pillar as part of the social dimension of EMU? What are the euro area's needs? What are the challenges related to the principles put forward under the Pillar?

The consultation process should be concluded by 31 December 2016 and will constitute the basis for the new Commission's final proposal for the Pillar to be delivered in early 2017.

Concluding remarks by Claude Rolin, Vice-Chair of the Committee on Employment and Social Affairs of the European Parliament

Meeting room: Hemicycle (Paul-Henri Spaak Building, 3rd floor)

10.05 - 11.00 Exchange of views among the participants

The implementation of reforms and measures to foster growth and jobs across the EU is still rather heterogeneous and a lack of coordination sometimes materializes among Member States. The Eurogroup has undertaken to benchmark national reforms and, when possible, establish best practices in order to facilitate reforms to be debated at national level. In the context of Article 9 of the fiscal compact it would be worthwhile to explore how to further enhance cooperation and sharing of best practices among national Parliaments to deliver structural reforms for growth and jobs.

Concluding remarks by Silvio Schembri, Chair of the Economic and Financial Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives of Malta

11.00-12.30 Plenary session: The role of financial assistance programmes and the European Stability Mechanism in safeguarding the stability of the euro: Exchange of views

Meeting room: Hemicycle (Paul-Henri Spaak Building, 3rd floor)

Co-chaired by Silvio Schembri, Chair of the Economic and Financial Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives of Malta and Roberto Gualtieri, Chair of the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs of the European Parliament

11.05 - 11.30 Key addresses by Edward Scicluna, President of the Economic and Financial Affairs Council (ECOFIN)

Klaus Regling, Managing Director of the European Stability Mechanism (ESM)

11.30 - 12.30 Exchange of views among the participants

At its annual meeting in autumn 2016 the European Stability Mechanism (ESM) agreed to start an evaluation process of former stability support programmes to carefully examine the financial support provided in past programmes and to draw lessons from them with the aim of increasing the efficiency and effectiveness in the future. It also decided to publish more programme-related documents. Today Cyprus, Ireland, Portugal and Spain are subject to post-programme surveillance by the Commission, while Greece is still subject to its third macro-economic adjustment programme: the ESM is by far the largest creditor to Greece, with more than €160 billion disbursed from the EFSF and the ESM.

Concluding remarks by Silvio Schembri, Chair of the Economic and Financial Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives of Malta and Roberto Gualtieri, the Chair of the Committee on Economic and Monetary Affairs of the European Parliament
